

NOW FOR THE RACE.

Yachtsmen Discuss the Merits of Vigilant and Valkyrie.

Pilgrim and Jubilee Off to Boston, Vigilant to City Island.

Spars and Sails of the English Yacht Arrive To-Day.

At noon today Columbia was the only one of the four cup-defenders that had not left the anchorage at Hay Ridge. The other three boats, Jubilee and Pilgrim, got under way early, and headed for the Hub.

No fuss was made about their departure, and there were no signs of exuberance aboard.

The victorious Vigilant followed soon after, bound for her headquarters at City Island.

If there is any doubt in the minds of yachtsmen that the best of the four cup-defenders was chosen to meet Valkyrie, such a doubt is effectively ended. That Vigilant showed superior racing ability is admitted by everybody.

The question now arises can she repeat the trick when she meets Valkyrie. A major league yachtsman would say she can. In fact, there are very few who are not of that opinion.

Among the prominent yachtsmen seen this morning was expressed an opinion to the effect that J. W. Oddie, skipper of the New York Yacht Club, Mr. Oddie has followed the things of both Vigilant and Valkyrie closely, and he thinks the cup is his.

"On present Vigilant ought to win," said Mr. Oddie. "I think she will."

"What do you mean by present?" "What, form in this case. We know what Vigilant has done, and what Valkyrie has done. We draw deductions from their respective performances."

"These deductions are that Vigilant is the more likely to win. Still, it is a matter of opinion, and I am not a betting man. You think Vigilant has shown conclusively evidence of superiority to the other three yachts?"

"Yes, unquestionably. She has shown superiority in all kinds of races. The owners of Vigilant will have done from now until the race to fitting her for the contest. The deductions are possible to increase her speed."

Regarding the report that the yacht sailed to meet Valkyrie, which she had rig out down to meet the English schooner on even terms, Mr. Oddie said he had not heard of any thing of the kind.

Chairman Smith, of the Regatta Committee, thinks it is very probable that Vigilant will show herself to be faster.

"Valkyrie is reported to have done fourteen knots an hour," he suggested by the reporter.

"I don't believe there is a yacht built that can make that speed," replied Mr. Smith.

"Favorable winds and tides have probably helped Valkyrie along, but she will have to make her own time when she has done to meet Vigilant."

The spars and sails of Valkyrie to be used in the contest were which arrived on the Berlin yesterday, were moved over to the White Star pier No. 4 this morning, where they will be taken into Valkyrie's hold.

In addition to the spars and sails there were a deck chair and a package of shacks. There were twenty packages in all, ten spars and eight sails.

The materials had been sent from C. Hansen & Sons, shipbuilders, Cowes, Isle of Wight, and were consigned to H. M. Kersey.

Mr. H. Mattland Kersey, of the White Star line, and who is the representative in America, said this morning that it would require but ten days to prepare the yacht on an ocean voyage.

It is to say, if she suffered no more than ordinary rough usage, which a yacht does on an ocean voyage.

Dunneville will leave on Saturday next by the Campania for America.

MARTHA HUE HERE AGAIN.

She Comes in by Way of Canada and Cannot Be Returned.

A report has reached Dr. Joseph H. Senner, Commissioner of Immigration, that Martha Hue has returned to this city, by way of Canada, from Hamburg.

Martha is the young woman who arrived here on the Augusta Victoria from Hamburg, Sunday, and tried to deny her identity. She was sent back to Europe Aug. 17.

Dr. Senner was somewhat surprised when he heard that she had returned to this city. He said he was powerless to take any further steps to keep the young woman out of the country.

There is no law giving him power to apprehend the young woman and again send her back to Europe, as he can only deny the United States Government, and laugh at the futile efforts of the authorities to keep her out.

"This is the principal reason that Supt. Stump and I have been unable to place United States Inspectors be placed along the Canadian border," said Dr. Senner. "The inspectors would not be just persons from coming here."

This is especially important in view of the fact that the young woman has repudiated the agreement made with Supt. Stump last Thursday by Deputy Canadian Minister of the Interior, Burgess.

Eleven thousand ounces were bought outright, so the purchases for the day aggregated 20,000 ounces. The silver purchases thus far this month amount to 24,000 ounces.

He said further that the stockholders of the bank were in session until 1 o'clock this morning at the Hoffman House, but nothing definite was done.

THE WAR LORD SPEAKS AGAIN.

Thanks the Prince for Reawakening German Military Spirit.

The Emperor in Fresh Armor Watches Over the Peace of the World.

BERLIN, Sept. 12.—Last evening at a dinner given in his honor at the palace of the Grand Duke of Baden Emperor William said that last Spring, while seeking a few hours' repose in Karlsruhe, the thought had occurred to him and the Grand Duke of Baden whether the German nation would remain equal to its task or deviate from the path indicated by Emperor William I. and show itself unworthy of the good deeds of Emperor Frederick as the doctrine of the hour approached and it became necessary to again direct the German people in the right way for them to follow.

Continuing, the Emperor said, addressing his words to the Grand Duke: "It was Your Highness who first of all, with pregnant golden words, touched the chord which ever vibrates in the heart of the nation. The military spirit was reawakened within our people, a new idea permeated the entire country, and our nation became once again itself."

"I thank Your Highness, as I thank my other comrades in the empire. Each Prince has done his utmost to bring forward his men and assemble them around the Imperial standard. HELD FOR HORSE-STEALING.

Many Williamsburg Victims Appear Against Max Miller.

$1,000 Bail Required on Each of Four Charges.

Max Miller, twenty-five years old, was held in the Ewen Street Court, Williamsburg, today on four charges of horse-stealing.

During the last three months many stolen in the Sixth Precinct. Twenty-five victims have been robbed.

Detective Campbell, of the Sixth Precinct, has been working on the case and spent his evenings watching various stables, but without result, up to last night.

Last evening he caught Miller leaving a stable at 181 Barrett street, with a set of harness in his shoulder.

Miller was taken to the Stagg Street Police station, and several victims identified Miller as the man who had robbed them.

George Schleming, of 187 Broadway, who breeds and sells horses, said a wagon valued at $500, belonging to him, of 184 Johnson avenue, says Miller is the man who stole it. He valued it at $125 from his stable. William H. Whitson, of 306 Sumner street, says he lost a horse valued at $200. He thinks Miller took it. John Koerner, of 82 Selgel street, charges the prisoner with driving off his horse and wagon worth $100.

The detectives expect that other complaints will be made.

When the various charges had been made Justice Watson looked at the prisoner.

"Miller, you seem to have stolen everything in Brooklyn, but this Court-House is worth you that it is too securely closed down for even such an accomplished criminal."

"I will hold you in $1,000 bail on each charge."
